DML2015 CONFERENCE SPACE
SHERATON DOWNTOWN LOS ANGELES

EQUITY BY DESIGN

This conference reframes the debate over equity and educational technology, moving us from access to tools toward new practices and forms of engagement. We will examine issues of equity, nationally and globally, across economically developing and developed countries, and a range of settings and purposes in which rich, meaningful, and relevant learning and engagement are re-imagined. We hope to dedicate special attention to the ingenuity and creativity that already exist in the everyday practices of groups often thought to be marginal to technology innovation and learning, including women and girls, nondominant families and communities in the U.S., and outside stereotypically high-tech regions. In addition to showcasing the most current research, the conference will engage participants in discussions, demonstrations, performances, screenings, and designs that promote equity and address inequity.

WORKSHOPS & PANEL TRACKS

BB BLURRING BOUNDARIES: BROADENING EQUITABLE ACCESS WITHIN AND BETWEEN LEARNING INSTITUTIONS AND NETWORKS

This track features talks that explore theory, research, and practice in ways that, by design, broaden equitable access to connected learning experiences.

EF EXPANDING FREEDOMS THROUGH DIGITAL MEDIA DESIGN AND PRACTICE LOCALLY AND GLOBALLY

This track broadens the DML conversation around media practice and equity worldwide.

CE DIGITAL MEDIA AND YOUTH CIVIC ENGAGEMENT: DESIGNS FOR LEARNING, TEACHING AND ACTION

This track features presentations from adults and young people who speak to how we can leverage youth engagement with participatory media to foster an equity agenda.

OL OPEN LEARNING/EDUCATIONAL TECHNOLOGIES

This track involves self-directed and open-ended exploration of new ideas. It involves the construction of new connections — among ideas and among people.

ED EQUITY BY DESIGN

This track addresses general topics related to the conference theme.
